Extra Information

We are required to report the details of our customers who either have or potentially have a tax residency outside of the UK to HMRC.

- If you tell us that you're tax resident in one country but our records suggest you could be tax resident in another, for example you tell us that you are tax resident in the UK, but you use an address in the USA, you will need to give us a certified copy of one of the following:
 - A certificate of Residence issued by an appropriate tax official of the country you give as your tax residence. For example, for the UK, a certificate in relation to your UK tax residence issued by HM Revenue and Customs; or
 - Any valid identification issued by an authorised government body of the country you give as your tax residence, which includes your name and is typically used for identification purposes. For example, a passport, driving licence or a National Armed Forces identity card.

Any documentary evidence you provide must be certified as a true copy in accordance with the instructions below. Please do not send original documents.

- Please note that you can have a country of tax residence even if you don't pay any income tax. In most cases it is the country where you live or where you would pay tax if you had enough income, earnings, profits or pension. It is also possible to be tax resident in more than one country at the same time. It would be very unusual not to be tax resident in any country at all and if you told us this we would expect you to be able to explain why.

For further information you can visit: www.co-operativebank.co.uk/customerservices/tax-residence

If you're not sure of your UK tax residence status, you can check this on the gov.uk website: www.gov.uk/tax-foreign-income/residence

Alternatively, you may find it appropriate to obtain professional tax help/advice, which The Co-operative Bank cannot provide.
